I can’t attend a class because of a personal tragedy.

We used to accommodate personal tragedy requests—until we discovered that 100% of these claims were fabricated. People claiming financial hardship were, in reality, wealthy, and their alleged tragedies were false.

Because of this, we treat all reschedule requests equally, regardless of the reason. If you need to reschedule, you must pay the rescheduling fee before the class starts.

Reschedule a Class

If you find this policy unfair, blame the hundreds of elites who faked tragedies to cheat a small business out of a few dollars.
